Studying at Chaoyang University of Technology (CYUT) as an international student has been an incredible experience that has allowed me to gain a deeper understanding of Taiwanese culture and education system. One of the most enriching aspects of my experience has been the exposure to the country's diverse and vibrant culture. Taiwan is a melting pot of various ethnicities, languages, and traditions, and this multiculturalism is reflected in many aspects of daily life, including food, fashion, art, and music.

One of the things that I have appreciated the most about CYUT is the welcoming and supportive environment that the university provides. From the friendly faculty to the welcoming student body, I have always felt that CYUT is a place where I can grow and thrive as a student. From the moment I arrived on campus, the International and Cross-Strait Cooperation (ICSC) team was readily available to assist me with any questions or concerns I had. They provided me with valuable information on a range of topics, including housing, transportation, and campus resources. They also organized helpful orientation sessions to familiarize me with the university and Taiwanese culture. ICSC team is always approachable and friendly, and they consistently go above and beyond to ensure that international students feel supported and valued. They have created a welcoming environment that has helped me to integrate into university life and make the most of my study abroad experience.

Furthermore, CYUT that has impressed me the most is the quality of the education that is offered. The professors are knowledgeable and dedicated, and they provide a learning environment that is both challenging and supportive. As an international student in the Department of Communication Arts at CYUT, I have been impressed with the quality of Taiwan's film and television resources, as well as the creative freedom and opportunities for exploration that the department provides.

The resources available in Taiwan for film and television production are truly exceptional, and as a student in the Communication Arts department, I have had access to cutting-edge equipment and facilities. Additionally, the department offers a diverse range of courses that allow students to explore various aspects of media production, including screenwriting, directing, and cinematography.

I have also appreciated the focus on practical, hands-on learning that is emphasized at CYUT, which has allowed me to apply the theoretical knowledge that I have gained in the classroom to real-world situations.

Moreover, studying at CYUT has also allowed me to become immersed in Taiwanese culture and to experience firsthand the country's rich history and traditions. From the night markets and street food to the temples and festivals, there is always something new and exciting to discover in Taiwan. The local night markets and street food stalls are an essential part of Taiwanese culture and offer a unique opportunity to sample a variety of delicious Taiwanese dishes while mingling with locals. Through these experiences, I have gained a greater appreciation for the richness and diversity of Taiwanese culture and have developed meaningful connections with the local community.

Overall, studying at CYUT as an international student has been an incredibly rewarding experience that has allowed me to grow both academically and personally. The cultural offerings in the vicinity of Chaoyang University of Technology have been an integral part of my study abroad experience, allowing me to immerse myself in Taiwanese culture and broaden my understanding of the world. Through these experiences, I have been able to deepen my understanding and appreciation of Taiwanese culture, history, and environment, and I am grateful for the opportunity to explore and learn in such a rich and diverse cultural context. The supportive environment, quality of education, and cultural immersion have all contributed to making my time at CYUT unforgettable.
